Course Description:

What We Do in Stretch English

Stretch I is the first semester of a year-long ENGL 1A that will help you understand the writing process and the goals, dynamics, and genres of written communication. Through interpretation and analysis of texts, students in Stretch develop clear thinking and effective writing that give form and coherence to complex ideas. Students practice these skills by writing for various audiences and rhetorical situations.

Stretch extends your course of study: The Stretch English course in which you have enrolled “stretches” the English 1A curriculum from one to two semesters, allowing us more time to hone your reading and writing skills. This added time to prepare will ensure that you are ready to transfer those skills to the writing you will do in your other courses here at SJSU.

Stretch invites you into a learning community: This semester you are enrolled in Stretch English I, and next term, provided you successfully complete the fall course, you will enroll in Stretch English II. You will study with the same instructor and writing colleagues from fall. Together your class cohort will explore reading and writing for a full year.

What We Will Do in this Section of Stretch English: 21st Literacies for a Global Citizen

This section will be divided into three modules, each of which will help us to answer our main inquiry; namely, what is the relationship between 21st century literacies and global citizenship, especially in relation to the millennial college student? Our first module will focus specifically on public dialogue. Each of you will follow a story in the International New York Times that you will use to compose three different writing assignments: a letter home in which you encourage your family to follow your story, a personal essay in which you share your firsthand experience with your story (or overarching theme thereof), and an op-ed piece to submit for publication. The second module will cover the civic engagement on campus. You will start by reading Joel Stein's article "Millennials: The Me, Me, Me Generation" and reflecting on his (first) assertion that millennials lack empathy and are no longer politically active. We will discuss armchair philanthropy, activism versus slacktivism, and empathy versus apathy. You will seek out a subject to interview who is civically engaged on campus and write a profile about them and the potential impact of their actions on both a campus and global level. Your profile will be considered for submission to the Spartan Daily. The third and final module will explore civil discourse: where and how it is used (and where it is not). You will watch various political speeches on YouTube, ranging from Martin Luther King Jr.'s "I Have a Dream" to Emma Watson's address to the UN, and write an evaluation of one of them. You will also complete an ethnography project with 2-3 of your classmates in which you analyze the language used to detail a hot topic on a social media platform. You will end the module, and the semester, with a critical essay to the Education Manager of the New York Times explaining how you've developed as a reader, writer and global citizen through reading the publication.

What You Will Learn in Stretch English I and II

As part of your general university education, you are offered this course to explore how reading and writing inform the work we do together at the university. Across the university, in all disciplines and majors, reading and writing inform the collaborations between students and faculty as we create new knowledge together.

The General Education guidelines for instructors outline five broad learning outcomes for all courses that satisfy Area A2. Stretch faculty have designed their courses to ensure that you meet these outcomes.

GE Learning Outcomes (GELO)

Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

1. demonstrate the ability to read actively and rhetorically

2. demonstrate the ability to perform the essential steps in the writing process (prewriting, organizing, composing, revising, and editing) and demonstrate an awareness of said performance
3. articulate an awareness of and write according to the rhetorical features of texts, such as purpose, audience, context, and rhetorical appeals
4. demonstrate the ability to integrate their ideas and those of others by explaining, analyzing, developing, and criticizing ideas effectively in several genres
5. demonstrate college-level language use, clarity, and grammatical proficiency in writing

Through a variety of writing assignments and projects in this yearlong course, you will continuously practice all phases of the writing process: prewriting, organizing, writing, revising, and editing. As you see in the sample table, the major assignments and projects require you to produce about 9500 words. Exact word counts may vary from section to section. Several of your essays will be drafted in class, both to give you experience in timed-writing situations and to give me the opportunity to observe and confer with you about your drafting process. Several assignments will give you opportunity to explore multiple modes of presenting arguments— orally, visually, in both print and on screens.

Table 1 maps how the yearlong course will meet Written Communication I requirements and standards as well as the GE learning objectives.

Assignment	Assignment (Word Count)	Words (approx.)	Assignment Type	Term	GE Learning Objective
Critical reading/reflection (CRR)	CRR Essay 1, CRR Essay 2, CRR Essay 3	2100	in-class writing	F, F, S	GELO 1, 2, 3,4, 5
Data-driven analyses	Personal Essay Interview Project Ethnography Project	2800	out of class writing	F, S, S	GELO 2, 3, 5

Portfolio/self-reflection essays	Midyear Final	1750	in-class writing	F, S	GELO 1, 2, 3, 4, 5

The Work You Will Do in Your Stretch Course: A Shared Curriculum

Table 1 outlines the major writing assignments for all Stretch English courses. The fall writing assignments include: A benchmark essay and 2 critical reading and reflection essays, written in class; a personal essay; an essay for a public forum; a self-reflection essay (written in class). The spring writing assignments include: An interview project, a profile essay, a critical/reflection essay (written in class), an ethnographic project, a critical essay, and a self-reflection essay.

Distributed over two semesters of study, the assignments you complete are designed to build your reading, thinking and writing skills across genres that address different audiences and purposes. All writing assignments must be completed—all daily writing, all drafts, all formal projects and essays (in class and out of class). You will not be able to earn credit (at the midyear review) or to earn the required C- (to clear remediation and earn graduation credit for the course) if you have not completed all writing assignments. This is not just a mathematical truth; it is a reflection of the design of the coursework itself. The assignments are an integrated series of reading and writing exercises: the effectiveness of your writing increases as you gain expertise with our topic over 32 weeks of instruction.

Learning to articulate the learning you have achieved through coursework reinforces that learning. In both fall and spring you will turn in a portfolio of your Stretch writing, along with an essay that reflects on your progress toward achieving the course learning objectives.

Midyear Self-Reflection and Portfolio Review

At the end of the fall term you will submit a portfolio for Stretch instructors to review. This portfolio will contain two essays from your fall coursework: the first critical reading/reflection essay and the first major essay (the essay for a public forum). You will also submit a reflection on these two essays, written in class, comparing them to assess your progress toward the learning objectives for the first half of the course.

Reflecting on Your Own Learning: The Stretch Course Learning Outcomes (CLO)

When you have completed this coursework, you will have made considerable progress in developing yourself as a reader and writer. At the end of the fall and the spring term, you will assemble this work in a portfolio, and reflect on the work to gauge and define your progress. Presenting this portfolio to me and to one other member of the Stretch Faculty Learning Community, you will demonstrate to us your own ability to:

Read to learn:

- annotate a reading selection to develop a summary and response in your writing (GELO1);
- identify audience and purpose in texts from several genres (GELO 1,3,4);
- explain how genres work to serve audience and context (GELO 1, 3).

Read to write:

- identify rhetorical appeals and devise strategies for an effective appeal to a specific audience (GELO 1, 3);
- develop a text to effectively appeal to a specific audience (GELO 1, 3);
- identify the choices a writer has made to produce a text (GELO 1, 3, 4);
- use readings as models for your own writing strategies (GELO 1, 4);
- concisely, accurately explain and critique information and ideas from your reading (GELO 1, 3, 4);
- use information gleaned from your reading as evidence in your text and cite that information (GELO 1, 4);
- use quotation and summary to create context for your writing (GELO 1, 4, 5).

Write with an increased awareness of the process:

- discuss specific strategies for prewriting and revision that have worked for you (GELO 2);
- repurpose acquired skills and information to tackle new writing problems (GELO 2).

Read and write with an increased awareness of the language you use:

- identify new grammatical forms and imitate them (GELO 1, 2, 3, 4, 5);
- analyze and discuss the structure of sentences and the grammatical choices you make (GELO 2, 3, 5);
- identify editing problems in your own writing (GELO 2, 5);
- identify and apply effective strategies for editing your work (GELO 2, 5);
- identify and apply effective proofreading strategies (GELO 2, 5);

Reflect on and assess your own writing, process and product, to support continued language and writing development (GELO 2, 3, 4).

Final Examination or Evaluation

Final Self-Reflection and Portfolio Review

The last essay you write will also be a self-reflection essay; it will be the presentation piece in your final portfolio. This portfolio, submitted as a Canvas ePortfolio, is your culminating exercise in this class. It will contain the reflection essay as well as the samples you have chosen from your writing (over the full 30 weeks of instruction): prewriting, drafts, and revisions. Your portfolio will be assessed by two Stretch faculty members, using a common scoring guide.

Grading Information for GE/100W

- For Basic Skills (A1, A2, A3, B4) include the following statement:

“This course must be passed with a C- or better as a CSU graduation requirement.”

“Passage of the Writing Skills Test (WST) or ENGL/LLD 100A with a C or better (C- not accepted), and completion of Core General Education are prerequisite to all SJSU Studies courses. Completion of, or co-registration in, 100W is strongly recommended. A minimum aggregate GPA of 2.0 in GE Areas R, S, & V shall be required of all students.”

“Success in this course is based on the expectation that students will spend, for each unit of credit, a minimum of 45 hours over the length of the course (normally 3 hours per unit per week with 1 of the hours used for lecture) for instruction or preparation/studying or course related activities including but not limited to internships, labs, clinical practica. Other course structures will have equivalent workload expectations as described in the syllabus.”

Classroom Protocol

- Office Hours: I strongly encourage you to visit my office hour over the course of the year. Doing so will allow me to offer more personalized feedback on your essays and to walk you through any questions or concerns you may have.
- Deadlines: Late work will not be accepted.
- Double-entry Journals: You will be required to keep a journal throughout both semesters. You are responsible for keeping track of all your entries, including in-class prewriting activities, which will be calculated into your participation grade at the end of each semester.
- Format: All drafts will be brought to class as hard copies. Final essays will be submitted in Canvas. Be sure to save all of your work; doing so will ensure that the portfolio process runs smoothly.
- Workshops: Workshops are not optional. They are an integral part of your writing experience, and as such should be taken seriously. On workshop days, be sure to: come to class on time, bring the required number of hard copies of your draft (see schedule), and be ready to offer and accept constructive feedback.

Where You Can Go to Get Support as a Writer at SJSU: Resources for Stretch Composition Students

Part of becoming a successful writer is learning how and when to seek the support you need.

 - Peer Mentors: Dedicated Writing Support for Stretch English Students. Some Stretch Instructors have requested a peer mentor for the section. A Stretch peer mentor is a fellow SJSU student trained to work with Stretch English students and instructor as part of the learning community of the classroom. This type of writing support offers you a rare opportunity to work one on one with an advanced writer who knows the assignments and materials you are working on and with. Your peer mentor will schedule appointments and workshops on a weekly basis. Look for Canvas announcements about upcoming meeting times and places. Sign up immediately when these appointments open.
7.
 - SJSU Peer Connections Peer Connections offers course-content based tutoring, enhanced study and time management skills, more effective critical thinking strategies, decision making and problem-solving abilities, and campus resource referrals. There are three mentoring locations: SSC, Room 600 (10th Street Garage on the corner of 10th and San Fernando Street), at the 1st floor entrance of Clark Hall, and in the Living Learning Center (LLC) in Campus Village Housing Building B. Visit Peer Connections website at <http://peerconnections.sjsu.edu> for more information.
8.
 - SJSU Writing Center Located in Clark Hall, Suite 126, the Writing Center offers appointments with tutors who are well trained to assist you as you work to become a better writer. The Writing Center offers both one-on-one tutoring and workshops on a variety of writing topics. To make an appointment or to refer to the Center's online resources, visit the Writing Center website at <http://www.sjsu.edu/writingcenter> . For additional resources and updated information, follow the Writing Center on Twitter and become a fan of the SJSU Writing Center on Facebook.

University Policies

Per University Policy S16-9, university-wide policy information relevant to all courses, such as academic integrity, accommodations, etc. will be available on Office of Graduate and Undergraduate Programs' Syllabus Information web page at <http://www.sjsu.edu/gup/syllabusinfo/>"

3	W 2/7	HW: Draft of Profile Essay (3 copies) In-class activity: workshop drafts. HW: Comment on workshop feedback.
4	M 2/12	In-class activity: “pitch your profile.” Why should the SD publish your profile? What makes it important for SJSU students to read? HW: Final draft of Profile Essay.

Week	Date	Topics, Readings, Assignments, Deadlines
4	W 2/14	DUE: FINAL DRAFT OF PROFILE ESSAY In-class activity: brainstorm and define a working definition of “civil discourse.” What is it and why is it so important? Small group activity: pull up recent political tweets and posts to find examples of civil discourse and examples of “non-civil” (provocative?) discourse. HW: Print, read and annotate prompts for remaining three writing assignments (CRR3, Ethnography Project and Critical Essay).
5	M 2/19	DUE: Annotated prompts. In-class discussion: civil discourse and Rogerian argumentation. How do we create safe spaces for meaningful conversation in a politically divided community, nation and world? How can empathy improve your argument? In-class activity: set up groups for final projects/assignments. HW: Watch and take notes on Martin Luther King Jr.’s “I Have a Dream” speech and Emma Watson’s UN speech advocating “He for She.” Both can be found on YouTube.
5	W 2/21	DUE: Notes on 2 speeches. Warm-up exercise: What is the function of metaphorical language in MLK’s speech? How does he anchor abstract ideas with concrete imagery? How does the religious undertone of his speech enhance his argument? How does Watson use Rogerian argumentation? What are the multiple sides of the argument she considers re feminism? In-class discussion: go over warm-up exercise. Watch: Michelle Obama’s final message to America HW: Find samples from speeches that exemplify either civil or uncivil discourse.
6	M 2/26	DUE: Samples from speeches. Small group workshop of samples: how does language reflect the values of an intended audience? Who is the intended audience for each of the speeches? How do you know? In-class discussion: Rogerian arguments strive toward an agreement; how does one find common ground with those who do not share the same values? Where has this been attempted or avoided in the samples from your speeches? HW: Nominate speech for CRR 3 to Canvas discussion board.
6	W 2/28	In-class activity: compose double-entry journal for chosen speech; find examples of civil and uncivil discourse. Where does the speaker potentially “build bridges” or “create walls,” especially among millennials?
